GOOSEFISH STOLE OBICKENS. Theodore Judson, keeper of the Stratford, Conn., lighthouse, uncovered on Sstorday a novel chicken thief in the shape of an immense goosefish or angler. The creature is common on the Long Island coast, but is seldom found out of

The Stratford lighthouse is situated on a point which projects far out from shore and on its narrow slopes Judson has raised many chickens. Recently be lost at least two handred fine birds. The only clews he could find to the thief were marks in the sand at low water resembling those made by the flippers of a turtle and a trail of chicken feathers leading to the tide mark.

Last Saturday he heard an unearthly noise in his coops, and with a shotgun and a lantern he reached the brooder, to find his hens in a commotion. He discerned a pair of round, fiery eyes shining at him, promptly dropped the lantern and blazed away with both barrels of his gun. Judson found the angler with half its breast blown away. It weighed sixty pounds.

AVENGER ON HIS TRACK. G. H. Janney, of Birmingham, Ala., salled from New York on the steamer Campania yesterday, with the avowed intention of avenging the murder of his brother-in-law.

Janney, who is a broker, hurried to New York from Danville, Va., where the murder occurred, barely in time to catch the bost.

"I have been looking for the man who killed D. H. Spencer a year ago, and I know where he is now," said Janney. "I don't need the aid of the law in this case."

Spencer was at first believed to have been killed by a burglar, Januey said, but was in reality the victim of a business enemy. Passengers who talked with Januey said that he had been recently told in a dream that the unknown murderer would be found in a certain

SHEA CONVICTED.

Cornelius P. Shea, ex-president of the Inernational Brotherhood of Teamsters and long a prominent labor leader, was convicted in New York yesterday of an attempt to murder Alice Walsh, a former Chicago waitress, with whom Shea is slleged to have lived. Miss Walsh testified that Shea stabbed her 27 times with a penknife May 21 in their rooms in New York. For a time her life was despaired of. Shea and the girl quarreled and separated, it is said, when she was told that he had a wife and children in Boston. She returned, however, and four days later the quarrel was renewed, and the assault followed when the girl told Shea she was going to leave him for good.

Shea's orly defense was that he had been drinking heavily and was in a state bordering on insanity when the alleged or'me was committed. He will be sentenced Friday. The maximum penalty is 25 years' imprisonment. ong a prominent labor leader, was convicted

SITE FOR BATTLE ABBEY

The Daughters of the Confederacy of Rich ond met in Lee Camp Hall, that city Tues mond met ill Lee Camp Hall, that city Tues-day and advocated the location of the pro-posed battle abbey on the site of old ford's Hotel. Several of the ladies are particularly anxious to have the battle abbey located on the Ford's Hotel site or in that historic vicin-ity. It was also suggested that what was once the Valentine House might be available as an abbey site.

the Valentine House might be available as an abbey site.

It is probable that the aid of the Colonial Damas and the Daughters of the American Revolution will be invoked by the Daughters of the Confederacy to help them solve this problem. Mrs. Randolph offered a motion, which was adopted, suggesting to the battle abbey committee that the proposed structure take the form of a memoral hall, and that it be located in the vicinity of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, the Capitol and near the Confederate Museum
